

Sent on behalf of Dr. Marc Kantorow

Summer 2020 COM Graduate Faculty Remote Instruction Notification

Dear COM Graduate Faculty,

As you know, all spring semester face to face lectures courses will now be taught online-only for the rest of the spring semester. It is highly likely that online-only instruction will be extended to courses taught Summer 2020. Summer 2020 faculty are encouraged to prepare their courses for online instruction now. Preparations may include but are not limited to revising syllabi and uploading lectures and course content to Canvas. Faculty should also identify alternate instructors for their courses in the event that they are unable to teach the course due to illness or care of a family member. Please let our office know your alternate instructor designation.

Faculty are encouraged to also explore online instruction services provided by the University including the use of Canvas WebEx.

Please contact FAU OIT as a resource for Canvas and WebEx assistance. The Center for E-Learning (<https://www.fau.edu/cel/>) is also a valuable resource.

Please refer to the University's designated site for the most updated information and helpful contacts, travel advice and preventive recommendations.

As always, please don't hesitate to contact either me or Bridget if you need help or advice.

We hope you and your family are well and appreciate your help making this transition possible.

*Marc Kantorow, PhD
Assistant Dean for Graduate Programs
Professor of Biomedical Science*