Right: Rachel Fowler completed rotations and will be interviewing at Boston Medical Center and Tufts.

Above: Shawn Rai and his car buried in the snow at his interview at WSU-HFH. (Note that he is prepared for the snow like a Floridian)

Left: Patrick Barrett at UF Health Jacksonville. "They had a zoo day for us to see poisonous snakes, and also to get a behind the scenes tour to see the animals. Saw this old king and we became fast friends".

M4 SPOTLIGHT

On September 30th several M4 students, Dr. Schwartz and Dr. Weiner attended the Monthly Internal Medicine Resident Journal Club at the Cleveland Clinic. The residents presented 2 articles: "A Controlled Trial of Renal Denervation for Resistant Hypertension", NEJM (04/2014) and "Fractional Flow Reserve-guided PCI for Stable Coronary Artery Disease", NEJM (09/2014). The residents did an excellent job of presenting the information and teaching all of us. We look forward to future collaborative events.

Mary Billington, M4, recently had an article accepted for publication to PRS Global Open, an international plastic surgery journal. She was able to write this case report while doing a fourth year plastic surgery elective with Dr. Hilton Becker, FAU Associate Professor. The report, "A Novel Approach to the Management of Margin-positive DCIS in Nipple-sparing Mastectomy" ensures negative tumor margins and allows a superior cosmetic outcome. Congratulations to Dr. Becker and Mary on the upcoming publication.

Wishing everyone a happy holiday season
